The Changing View of Western Culture

On Wednesday Evening March 6 at 8:15, KPFA will present a discussion: The Changing View of Western Culture, based on ideas from the book, "Frontiers of Knowledge in the Study of Man," which was edited by Lynn White, Jr. This volume is a collection of essays by seventeen distinguished scholars each of whom evaluates his own field for its particular contribution to the betterment of mankind. From these writings, each conceived independently, there emerges a striking convergence of intellectual concern with the change in basic concepts of twentieth century culture. As Lynn White states in his concluding chapter: "There is consensus today that although inevitably we are the offspring of the past, we are mutants as well. We are living in a time of general shift more fundamental than any since agriculture and herding displaced food-gathering and hunting as the habit of human existence. Not only the outer forms of living are being remodeled: our standards of values, thought and conduct, our criteria of judgment, all of our yardsticks are altering as well. The very canons of our culture are changing."

It is these "canons of culture" which will be explored in the March 6 discussion by four of the scholars who contributed to the book, "Frontiers of Knowledge." Speakers are Lynn White, Jr., President of Mills College; Peter H. Odegard, Professor of Political Science at the University of California; Alfred Neumeyer, Professor of Art History at Mills College; and George Hadley, Chaplain and Professor of Sociology at Mills College.
